Allow me to introduce myself. I am your candidate for State Representative in Pennsylvania's 90th Legislative District. I was proudly born and raised in Waynesboro to two hard-working, blue-collar parents. My dad turned wrenches for more than 15 years at Volvo in Shippensburg, while my mom worked as a dental assistant at various local offices. In 2009, my dad was laid off from his job at Volvo, and my mom had to get two jobs so that we could make ends meet. From my upbringing, I know what it means to have a strong work ethic, and I know what it means to struggle. For the middle and lower class, the cost of living is becoming increasingly difficult to bear as wages have not kept up. and I recognize the need to raise the minimum wage throughout the state of Pennsylvania and diversify the workforce within Franklin County.

Throughout my adulthood, I have served in a wide variety of roles. I was a special education teacher for a number of years with a passion for helping everyone in our most vulnerable populations. I learned from a teacher's perspective just how important our public schools are to our communities across this great nation. Public schools provide the foundation for our local communities, providing kids with the opportunity to become kind people and great citizens. Without adequate public school funding, children that I taught would have had less opportunities than their same-aged peers. I will not support voucher programs that use public funds for private, less-regulated schools. I will support our public schools because every child, no matter their background, deserves to have a quality education.

As a mother, I have seen the cost of daycare skyrocket, and I know that many lower and middle-class families really struggle to afford it. People should not be financially strained to provide their children with a quality early childhood experience.

I will draft and support a bill that provides free daycare and preschool for all families in the Commonwealth. It is possible: New Mexico just did it. During my life, I have seen the country I love become increasingly more divided and resentful. We need to redirect our energy to make this county, this state, and this nation into a better place for all. In the end, we all want the same things: Safety, a good job, good healthcare, a loving family. We can accomplish that TOGETHER. Join me in my campaign to help Franklin County move forward to a happier, more secure future for all our neighbors.
